Hi there, Wayne.

I've waded through Napier News (fun job), and also Maxine, Richard and Kirsten's councillor pages from December 1. I taken screenshots from the following pages:

1. Napier News (6 posts, all by Maxine)
2. Maxine and Api's councillor page (12 posts)
3. Richard's personal/councillor page (7 posts)
4. Kirsten's councillor page (11 posts)
5. Maxine's personal FB page (1 post)

I left out some random, unrelated-to-Napier posts from both Richard and Kirsten.

Richard's councillor page seems to also be his personal page. Both Kirsten and Maxine also have their own personal pages: I'm not FB friends with Kirsten and so can't see anything there, and almost all of Maxine's personal FB posts were then on-shared to her Councillor page.

I've attached a screenshot of the only really relevant one from Maxine's page (posted yesterday).

There are 35 screenshots, 12 relating to pools posts. While I haven't looked at them closely – I was whizzing through – nothing really leapt out at me.

Hope that's what you were after.

Cheers,

Here's what was said by Councillors after we had heard all the submissions on the Easter Sunday Trading proposal. We weren't able to persuade most of our fellow councillors to vote against it... After listening to us all, how would you have voted??

We six councillors have called an Extraordinary Council meeting to discuss this, to be held 9 am Thursday 20 December at the War Memorial Centre. After hearing a packed meeting on Tuesday where Council presented the Prebensen Drive proposal, but where not one of the speakers supported the Prebensen option; and mindful of the 7000-strong petition we received asking us to choose the Onekawa site for the new pool, we want to go back to the community, with ALL the information and ask for a clear mandate one way or the other!

John Lane I have shared my response below to all shares of this to groups I am a member of so I will just repeat it here.

“(3) The Onekawa Park Site is closer to three of our city's four wards containing its most deprived residential areas. The closest adjoining suburbs contain our city's most affordable housing keenly sought after by younger families.”

On a strictly personal level I live in Taradale so distance wise or ease of travel wise it makes absolutely no difference to me personally which way I would drive or bike to get to a swimming pool in order to do my weekly swim but it will sure make one hell of a difference to those people who reside in the areas talked about above and this reason alone is enough for me to support retaining the current pool.

Today we're looking at the first of our 'six key outcomes' which are being considered as part of the District Plan review - shifting much of Napier's future growth to the hills. The rationale? Over the next decade, it's estimated we'll welcome an additional 5,000 Napierites to the city. So why 'up high'?

While there's some space in existing neighbourhoods, we need to extend our urban boundaries and further development on flat land is problematic. Not only is this land subject to natural hazards including sea level rise, it'd also swallow up the Heretaunga Plains' high-quality, fertile soil. But what do you think? Have a squiz at the intro video, then go to www.sayitnapier.nz/home/napier-our-home-our-future for more info (and to share your ideas with us).

The third hoped-for 'outcome' from our District Plan Review is a livelier and more vibrant CBD. What does mean for our CBD? We'd have restaurants, bars, cinemas and live music venues in an attractive area, and all within walking distance. With more people living in and around our city centre, it'll help our businesses after 5pm and just lift the whole buzz for everyone. This Ted Talk gives you a good idea: bit.ly/The-Walkable-City.
